Services Provided:

For both our NHS and business clients we provide the following services:

- Health at Work Questionnaire

On receipt of our health at work questionnaire all prospective employees will be screened by occupational health nurse advisers who will notify their Manager of their fitness and will advise on any work adjustments if required.

- Health Interview

This involves looking at the health status of prospective employees in greater detail and may involve occupational immunisations, a review of their past health history, basic vision screening, and if required an audiometric hearing test, respiratory function test and blood screening.

- Occupational Immunisations

Occupational immunisations will be given to all employees who are at risk, and these may include Hepatitis A & B, Tetanus, and Influenza.

- Advice on sickness absence, rehabilitation and premature retirement on grounds of ill health

The aim is to return the employee back to the workplace. Where this is not possible the Occupational Health team will advise on temporary or permanent redeployment, and issues surrounding retirement on health issues.

- Interpretation of health and safety legislation

Advice on how to apply relevant health and safety legislation within your organisation and how new legislation may affect your business.

- Tailor made occupational health services designed to match your requirements

Contact Essex Occupational Health Centre to provide your organisation with the occupational health service your business deserves.

Your employees are a valuable asset, and it pays to take care of the people who take care of your business.
