

Family Fun Days

Our family fun days offer families the opportunity to meet and share experiences with other families who have been through and/or are still going through the journey that occurs following a burn injury. These days aim to provide families with time together to do fun (and sometimes challenging) activities in a supportive and therapeutic environment allowing children, siblings and even adults to develop their confidence and learn new skills. All our club members and their families get invited to these days and therefore they tend to be quite large events. The club psychologist is usually available at these events to provide informal support. These days are a great way for new club members and their families to experience a taster of what being involved in club can be like .
